RELIGIOUS FREEDOM EVENT

Mr
John Steenhof

John is the Managing Director of the Human Rights Law Alliance (HRLA). He has over 15 years experience as a lawyer and started Steenhof Brothers in 2015 which specialises in commercial law and also practicing in religious freedom litigation and advisory.

John will be speaking on the topic 'Stories of religious freedom under attack'.

Professor
Michael Quinlan

Michael is the Dean of the School of Law at The University of Notre Dame Australia. He is one of the editors of a new book on religious freedom called Religious Freedom in Australia – a new Terra Nullius? (Shepherd St Press).

Michael will be speaking on the topic 'What our law-makers need to do to better protect religious freedom'.

Ms
Michelle Rowland MP

Michelle is a member of the Australian House of Representatives for the Western Sydney seat of Greenway representing the Australian Labor Party (ALP). She is the Shadow Minister of Communications. In recent times, Michelle has spoken publicly about the need for the ALP to take seriously the concerns of religious people about matters including religious freedom and abortion.

Michelle will be speaking on the topic 'Help me to help you', which will focus how we as her constituents can help her as she seeks to persuade her colleagues to legislate to protect religious freedom.

The Hon.
John Anderson AO

John is a former Deputy Prime Minister of Australia. He has recently been published on topics such as civic freedoms, global food security, modern slavery and the economy. He currently farms on the family property whilst also being active through his Conversations series and website johnanderson.net.au, various directorships, public speaking and in the not-for-profit sector.

John will be speaking on the topic 'The price of inaction'.

Mark is the Senior Minister of St. Clement's Anglican Church Lalor Park and Kings Langley. Mark advocates for religious freedom because he is greatly concerned that our country will be worse off if religious freedoms are lost.

Host
Rev. Mark Tough
